There is no greater joy than walking down the street and seeing a friend. It is a simple pleasure, but it is one that is often forgotten. It is a pleasure that is often forgotten because we are so busy. We are so busy that we forget to stop and say hello to our friends. It was a special day for the school, as the students had the opportunity to meet the author of the book, "The Story of the Camel." The author, a former student of the school, had written the book as a tribute to the school's history and the students who had made it what it is today. The book was a collection of stories and memories from the school's past, and it was a wonderful way to celebrate the school's 50th anniversary.

A Couple Dedicated to Excellence!

The first time that the wife and husband met, they were both in the same class at the University of California, Berkeley. They were both studying for their Master's degrees in the field of education.

They had both been married once before, but their first marriages had ended in divorce. They were both looking for a new partner, but they were both very picky. They were both looking for someone who was intelligent, ambitious, and who had a sense of humor.

They both had a lot of experience in the field of education, and they were both very successful. They were both looking for someone who was also successful in their field.

A Different Student Life PERSPECTIVE

Around the world, millions of people have been inspired to improve their own lives and the lives of others by the example of Jesus Christ. The Bible is the source of the Christian message, revealing the power of God's love and the path to eternal life. Miss Campbell “Vogue” was definitely the appropriate theme for this year’s Miss Campbell University Pageant. While Ellis Theater was packed with supporting parents, faculty, and students, twelve anxious contestants gave it their all. When the votes had been tallied, however, the honor of Miss Campbell Spirit was given to Caroline Fish and 1990 Miss Campbell Leanne Davidson relinquished her crown to Kelly Garrison.

Moving In

David Lewis and a fellow student carry in a room's number one necessity — a refrigerator!

At first sight, it is small with cold, white cinder block walls and dreary gray floors. However, once moving-in-day arrives, dorm rooms come alive with the hustle and bustle of students.

Moving in for "experienced" students can be just as hectic and fun as for "inexperienced" freshmen. From carrying carpet and refrigerators to lugging stuffed animals and posters, the aid of an ever-cheerful University Friends Organization members is greatly appreciated by all. With most rooms being on upper levels, U.F.O. members, clad in gray t-shirts, are a welcome sight to many parents. Coming from around every corner, the U.F.O.'s managed to move everyone in quickly and efficiently.

For students, the excitement of seeing old friends and meeting new ones is combined with the anticipation of beginning another academic semester. As moving in day comes to a close, Campbell University becomes home to students once again.

Volunteers from Bules Creek First Baptist Church bring in a carpet to cover those cold floors.

Honor Ball

Good friends, good music, and a good time were had by all who attended the 1990 Honor Ball at the Howard Johnson Hotel in Fayetteville. Everyone came out in their finest dresses and tuxedos for a memorable time of dancing.

The eventful part of the night would be the crowning of the Spring Court Queen and Princess. Feelings of nervousness heightened as the master of ceremonies began to read the long awaited results. Student Government President Cynthia Balogh was crowned Spring Court Queen and Senior Patricia Harmon was crowned Spring Court Princess.

Other members of the court were Seniors-Julie Fussell, Shelley Lanier, and Susan Neugeant; Juniors- Gina Lewis and Jules Sale; Sophomores- Stephanie Fish and Jackie Goble; Freshmen- Catherine Cowling and Amy Mattocks.

A CAMPBELL...

Homecoming 1990 was an eventful day for students, faculty, and alumni of Campbell University. The day began with a carnival at the fountain. Various clubs and organizations set up booths and exhibits to entertain guests of the school. A parade featuring floats decorated by residence halls and clubs preceded the game. The parade route began at the Pearson Memorial Infirmary and concluded in front of Powell Hall where the floats were judged. The soccer game began at 3:00 in the afternoon with the Camels hosting the College of Charleston Cougars. At half time, the Harvest Court Queen and Princess were announced to the hundreds of people viewing from the stands.

The Camels went on to defeat the Cougars.

Campbell's clubs actively participated in the Homecoming events. The events ranged from Olympic games to a banner contest.

The day was concluded with the Homecoming dance sponsored by the Senior Class. It was held in Cannon Parlor and a live band entertained the gathering.

Excitement filled the "Indian Summer" fall day as the 1990 Homecoming game got underway. The stands were filled with hundreds of fans and alumni cheering the fighting Camels on to victory.

The highlights of the game were the half-time events in which the crowning of the Harvest Court Queen and Princess were announced. The crowd waited in anticipation as the Court was introduced. Finally the long awaited moment came. Jackie Goble was named Princess and Gina Lewis was crowned Harvest Court Queen by the 1989 Queen Patricia Harmon.

What was your opinion of PIG OUT '90?

Michael Smith

"It was a building experience among friends."

David Lewis

"It was a very enjoyable and relaxing night, a good change from the same old routine at school."

John Wagner

"I thought it was great — clean and simple. It seemed to be a great service to the students. David Erdling did a great job in organizing it."

Pig Out

This SGA sponsored treat featured a disc jockey spinning the latest tunes, fresh spring air, plenty of sunshine and all the barbecue one cared to eat.

The festive occasion brought a needed breather on April 19 as the 1989-90 school year was drawing to a close. Exams were near, tension was high and spring fever was hitting the heart of our campus. Needless to say, it did not take much arm twisting to motivate students to come out of their dorm rooms.

While Lloyd Johnson was mixing the music, the students were dancing, eating and relaxing before finals began. Now with all that excitement, who could possibly study?

Mark Rollins

Mimes, Robin Jennings and Dan Towery, don't have much to say about the Halloween dance.

Ghosts, goblins, witches and ghouls roamed Campbell's campus in search of goodies during the 1990 Halloween festivities. Women were allowed to visit men's campus for an hour of trick-or-treating and vice versa. The purpose of this event was not eventual tooth decay, although candy was the motivating factor for many. The real purpose was to collect money for the needy.

After the search for sugar, green stuff or copper (depending on the donor) ended, students ventured to Carter Gymnasium for the annual Halloween bash. The DJ in demand at Campbell, Lloyd Johnson, spun records until midnight.

This CAB sponsored event featured a dance contest. Judges were looking for three categories in the costume contest: scariest, most original, and best pair. Among the winners were: a grim reaper, a tiger and El Vira along with her pet ghoul.

My thoughts on Orientation:

"I was impressed with the program at orientation; it was well-organized and addressed a lot of the student needs. The 'Club Fair' was especially effective because it highlighted the array of activities open to the students. Participation in clubs and organizations is how I have established my presence here at Campbell."

Doug Sadtler

Experience College Life

Orientation turned out to be a great success. It was a time for freshmen students to become acquainted with what college life is all about! Orientation was a time for students to become familiar with the campus and to meet some of the former freshmen students with whom they would be going to school in the fall. "Overall, I thought it was a great learning experience," said Andy Harris. Orientation also gave everyone a chance to hear lectures, to taste the 'homecooked' cafeteria food and to actually see what living in a dorm would be like. To say the least, orientation was a tremendous help to new students.

Julia A. Baldwin

Is this really what cafeteria food is all about?

C. U. STUDENTS...

Fashion is important in everyone's life, especially for the students at Campbell University. The styles worn around campus vary from split skirts to cut up shorts. Some students choose to "bum-out" when going to class, wearing nothing but sweat pants and a favorite old T-shirt. Yet, others tend to prefer the comfort of their jeans. Many of us can relate to that favorite pair of old faded out jeans with about two really good holes worn into them, those that tend to end up in the garbage can every time you go home to visit Mom. Still, others much prefer the comfort of shorts. Many students find designer shoes appealing, while others find designer flip-flops appealing. Whatever the style though, chances are you will find it at Campbell University.

Top Right: Bookbags are always in style around a college campus. Tommie Culpepper shows us his full bag.

Make a Fashion Statement!

Angela Addison always makes a fashion statement. Her friend shows us what was hot for guys in casual clothing.

Earphones can be seen all over campus, but they bring on a whole new meaning when worn with a hat.

"Fashion means something different to everyone and is as individual as the people themselves. It encompasses everything from rhinestone jewelry to torn blue jeans. Right now, the styles are so drastic that you can get away with wearing anything. I tend to be pretty fashion conscientious, but on the conservative side. Once in a while, I choose something a little more "radical" to wear. It's all in the way you wear it.

Patricia Harmon

Dream Date

On September 12, the Dream Date Drawing was held. After intensely selling raffle tickets for several weeks, the winners were announced. First prize winner, Diana Denney and her Dream Date, Craig Lloyd, had reservations at the Governor's Inn Dinner Theater. They also enjoyed a showing of the movie "Steel Magnolias." Second prize winner, Ken Massey won a dinner for two at Western Steer in Dunn. Rhonda Taylor won third prize and dinner for two at Pizza Inn in Dunn.

A Dream Come True

Perfect Date:

"A perfect date would be one in which I found my date to be quite attractive and interesting. The date would start out with a nice intimate dinner whereupon we would share various secrets about ourselves. From there, we would take a walk along the beachshore. After that, I would take her to her home and thank her for a memorable evening."

What A Great Success!

Jenny Heires makes an awesome spike in front of a very supportive Parents' Day Crowd.

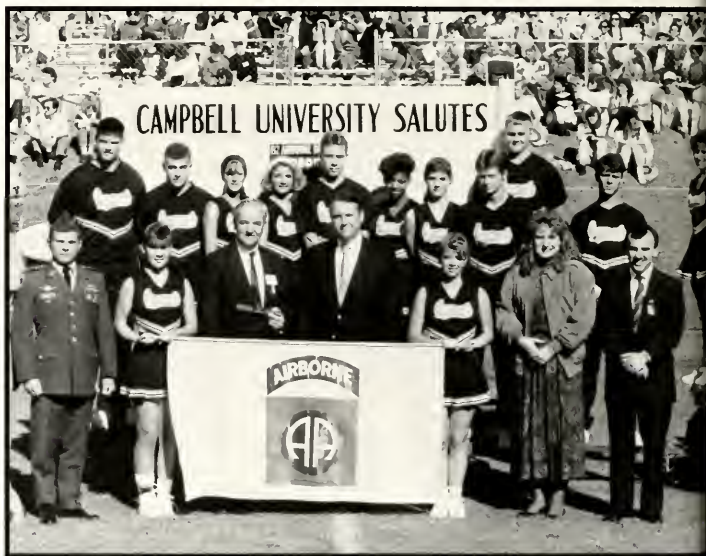

"I thought Parents' Day was very successful. The club booths were great."

Parents' Day was held on Saturday, October 27, 1990. The day was filled with an array of festivities to give parents a chance to see what their sons or daughters are experiencing in college. The day began with registration at 9:00 in the morning and ended with the fall musical, Guys and Dolls, that took place in Ellis Theater. Other events that occurred were the men's soccer game against Richmond, volleyball against Augusta, and the men's and women's scrimmage basketball games. After registration, parents had a chance to become acquainted with their sons' or daughters' professors. Just before the soccer game, there was an exciting air show presented by the 18th Airborne Corps and during half time the Committee to Support U.S. Forces in the Middle East, chaired by Gina Lewis, dedicated a sign to the 82nd Airborne troops who are fighting in the Middle East. The sign was then placed in front of the Welcome Center on U.S. Highway 421. At the close of the afternoon activities, the parents enjoyed a steak or shrimp dinner prepared by the staff of Marshbanks Dining Hall. Lloyd Johnson stated, "Being the first Parents' Day that I have attended, I was very impressed. Everyone seemed to be at ease the entire day. It was a great success."

"The Christmas dance proved to be a very elegant evening. The atmosphere was spectacular, especially the overlook of downtown Fayetteville from the terrace. I was excited to see such an overall great turnout."

A TIME TO DANCE

Dance was a sure hit for Jerry Dawson date.

The 1990 Christmas dance was held at the Prince Charles Hotel in Fayetteville. This was a special dance for the hotel because it was the last dance held there before it closed. The dance changed its name this year to become the Yule Tide Ball. The hotel was decorated with garland holly and a beautiful Christmas tree to really set the mood. A D.J. kept everyone dancing throughout the night playing a wide range of top 40 hits.

A packed dance floor is a good sign that the D.J. is a hit.

An estimated 300 people attended the Yule Tide Ball, most choosing to eat out in Fayetteville before the dance began. Couples decked out in their finest evening clothes appeared at Benningans, Darryls and even the Prince Charles Hotel restaurant. Around 1:00 am the evening came to an end and everyone headed back to "the Creek." Sophomore class representative Jon Wagner stated, "For us to put on the Christmas dance was a lot of work, but the large turnout made it a big success."

Hanging out in front of Marshbanks after dinner is a favorite pastime of all.

Hanging Out

Throughout the year, there have been various ways to take a break from the daily routine. Anytime you take a walk around the campus you discover a new area that students have made into a place to hang out. The fountain is always a refreshing area, as well as Chele's place where the food is great. The Student Center is a popular attraction and for those that like to mix business with pleasure there is always room at the library. Some students like to hang out alone while others like to hang out in large groups. Whatever your preference, you will always be in the in-crowd if you hang out with the students at CU.

LET'S GO UNDER...

Sponsored by the Campbell Activities Board, hypnotist Edwin L. Baron appeared in Turner Auditorium on November 13. Mr. Baron opened the show by explaining to the audience that "only those who believe can be hypnotized." After making this clear to all those present, he called for volunteers. Several eager participants rushed to the stage in hopes of being taken under by the talents of Mr. Baron.

Among the volunteers that were hypnotized were Scott Moore, Stephanie Swartz, and Benji Horn.

When Benji was asked to explain the experience, he stated, "Considering I was under hypnosis, it was impossible to remember everything that I did. When my friends told me what had actually happened, I was embarrassed. More than embarrassed, I was surprised when I found out that I had spoken a second language fluently!" So Benji, how about those martian women?

From the Serenity...

Red, white and blue ribbons were hung throughout campus.

What's your opinion of the Saudi Arabia Crisis?

"I fully support the U.S. involvement in the Mid East Crisis. I feel that Saddam Hussein is a tyrant who should be brought to justice. I think about our troops in the Gulf region, the battle conditions and the intense strife that they are experiencing. Hang in there guys!"

My heart goes out to the families of the soldiers, airmen and seamen here on the homefront. I would especially like to mention Tracy Cain and Claudia Williams of the Biology Department. Their husbands are members of the 82nd Airborne.

My feelings toward the anti-war activists are hardened. These people are retro-sixties. Folks, wake up and smell the coffee. The U.S. has chosen to make something happen, not stand around and watch things happen. Go for it, Bush!"

Jerry Burke

"All I can say is that I have never experienced so many mixed feelings at one time. I think that it is our duty as a democratic nation, which believes in the freedom of all human beings, to defend Kuwait's freedom as well. The unit which I served with when I was in the army has been deployed to Saudi Arabia and with it are some of my dearest friends. I am glad that we finally have a President that has some backbone and is willing to standup and not wait until it is too late. May God be with them."

The Campbell sign says it all.

...of "the Creek"...

As we look over the year, we can remember with sorrow an event that saddened us all. The Middle East crisis hit Campbell students with a shock as it took several students from class rooms. Students including Dawn Shelton, the Campbell Times editor, Jason Stone, Wicham Simmons, Micheal Holt, Thomas Givens, Micheal Thomas, and Donald Morrison.

Student leaders on campus such as Gina Lewis formed a committee to support the Middle East deployment. Their purpose was to inform the students as to what was really going on over there. Members of the committee are: Lt. Colonel Oliver R. Johnson, Dean Phillip Melvin, Dr. David Steegar, Becky Raper, David Lewis, Ken Massey, and Chris Rogerson.

The entire campus joined in to demonstrate its support of U.S. forces in the Middle East. The Baptist Student Union sent packets of Kool Aid to the soldiers to help make the water more pleasant. The ROTC Detachment sent giant cards. Omicron Delta Kappa collected 15,000 cards, one for every member of the 82nd Airborne. The Student Government Association also made it possible for everyone to have red, white, and blue ribbons.

To everyone in the Middle East, Campbell University's Pine Burr says "God Bless you and we'll be waiting for your return."

"Home Away From Home"

to those back home,

Since the day I got back to college I'd heard, "Wait until you get to the real world."

The real world was always another year and another step away for me... until August 31, 1990.

That's the day I was told to report for active duty with the United States Army. Saudi Arabia was my final destination and suddenly, the Middle East crisis became my "real world."

Since arriving in this country, I've worked as a broadcast journalist, a print journalist, I've been trained to handle media queries, and I help deal with accident and incident reports. It has probably been one of the most valuable experiences I've had because my major is mass communications.

Going from one "camel country" to another has been quite an adjustment. When we first got here, the heat was the worst. (After being here, a Buick Reck summer will be nothing).

The Arab culture hasn't been hard to adjust to because we really don't have much contact with them. The women stare alot. I think they are fascinated by what American females are allowed to do. At first I was the one who was intrigued. I can't imagine wearing a long black cape, a veil, and a cover over my hair all the time.

It's strange to see "no women allowed" or "women's entrance" signs on buildings, but I've accepted it because I know that all cultures are not alike. It has been a humbling experience and the phrase "proud to be an American" has taken on new meaning.

I enjoy seeing camels, I have probably seen as many as 150 at once. "Camel crossing" signs are as numerous in some places as the deer crossing ones at home. Seeing the camels makes me homesick because I always think of Campbell.

Being away from home, school, and my loved ones is the most difficult part of deployment. It may be hard to believe but even while surrounded by thousands of soldiers, I've never been so lonely in my life. Not a day goes by that I don't close my eyes and dream of being with my family and Mark again. Home is certainly where my heart is.

What we're doing here is right, there is no question in my mind about that. As for being lonely, afraid, and homesick — God has a plan and he'll take care of me — He always has.

Dawn Shelton

YOU

Theresa Durdan

"I want to be in a nice restaurant and find my ring in my baked potato."

Annette Graham

"I want him to write me a nice poem, frame the last stanza, and ask me to marry him in the last stanza."

Melony Gore

"If he ask me around Christmas time, I think it would be neat if the ring was in a Christmas ornament; or at Disney World and Mickey gives me the ring."

Marisa Crowell

"He's flying in from a vacation and has a bouquet of flowers. He gives a flower to eleven different people with instructions to give the flowers to me as they're coming off the plane and congratulate me. He'll have the last one, give it to me and ask me to marry him as he gets off the plane."

Natalie Morris

"I'd be so tickled it wouldn't matter, but I like the commercial where he buys her a house, takes her through it, opens the refrigerator at the end to find a ring."

Kelly Sealey

"We're at the beach. A small commercial plane with a paper banner flies by that reads Kelly Sealey, will you marry me."

Amy Shelton wants . . .

ON STAGE

"What did you think of C.U.'s Concerts this year?"

"I thought the Connells were the best concert that Campbell has offered in a long time. CAB really out-did itself on that one."

-Michael Smith
"I thought the concerts were very amusing and they helped me to socialize while fellowshipping with my friends."

-Tina Whitfield
"I found the concerts more enjoyable and I think overall the students enjoyed them more than in past years."

-Stephanie Combs
"The concerts this year seem to offer more of a variety for students. I think they were something that everyone could enjoy."

-Mark Rollins
"I liked them a lot."

-Brad Alabaster

Concerts at CU are really on the rise in quality and in participation. One of the most popular concerts at CU this year was the Connells. This group of youthful vocalist was truly talented and entertaining. The students really owe a great deal of thanks and appreciation to CAB for making great concerts possible. Campbell has come a long way and taken a different approach in the sound quality of its concerts. CAB wants to reach everyone and bring the students out to take part in all concerts, hoping each person can find something enjoyable to tell and share with his or her friends. If you missed the Connells, there is always next year. So sign up for CAB and make sure that the interests of all CU students are represented in the selection of concerts.

DAY STUDENTS

Day students are an important part of the total student population on the Campbell campus. They provide an array of personalities to our school that make it a more interesting place and contribute to an exchange of ideas.

The day student lounge in D. Rich gives students an opportunity to meet one another outside the classroom. It also provides them with a place to study or just hang around between classes. Several students have commented on not wanting to drive home for a half an hour just to turn around and come back to school for their next class.

The lounge provides them with a place to rest and catch up on all of the activities they missed while in the hustle and bustle of Campbell University.

You see them everyday, working diligently throughout the campus. Their jobs include working as lab assistants, cafeteria workers, helpers in the computer center as well as assisting Dean Melvin and Dr. Wiggins in their offices. Some of these hardworking students rely on that extra paycheck to cover unfortunate bills while other lucky souls use their paychecks as extra spending money for clothes and entertainment. Whatever the reason, the help and dedication of these students is greatly needed and truly appreciated.

Baptist Student Union

The Campbell University Baptist Student Union is the Christian witness of Southern Baptist work in an institution of higher learning in response to our Lord's command to make the gospel known to all men (Matt. 28:18-20).

A nine-member council of elected students leads the Campbell BSU. Each council member has task forces which involve other BSU students in planning and organizing Campbell BSU activities. The council is under the direction of Rev. Grover K. Blackburn, campus minister.

Campbell's BSU is a group of students who realize that Jesus Christ is a risen savior (Luke 24:6), and through Him, we may have eternal life (John 3:16).

Campbell is known for its diverse student body. Each of the fifty states is represented at least once; moreover, the university has at least one representative from 25 foreign countries. Whether from Maine, USA or the continent of Africa, our students made statements on "Spring Break '90."

This was not your typical Myrtle Beach trip for some students. This year, Spring Break vacations encompassed an array of global regions. Some students could be found "cruising the strip" at Daytona Beach, while another group cruised the Atlantic Ocean on their way to the sunny Bahamian Islands. Or, how about an airplane ride over the Atlantic to London, England.

Admittedly, not the entire student body got to venture out to experience the Atlantic Ocean. If one were to have conducted an honest survey, they would have found some students recuperating from midterms at home.

Whatever the case, Spring Break brought many different "tales" of relaxation.

Best Friends

Where did you meet your best friend? Did you grow up with him or her or did you meet during college? Maybe you met your best friend on the street, in the mall, or at a local hang-out spot. Whatever the case, one tends to find out that that person is someone who they can trust, be dependant on in times of need as well as during times of stress. Their shoulder is usually there to lean on when things do not always seem to go your way. Sometimes, best friends make you laugh, while other times, they can make you cry. Most important, however, is that they are able to accept you for who you are instead of what you are not. There are even those friends who are exact "Carbon Copies" of one another. Everlasting friendship:

It's not too often, nowadays especially, to find two friends who are and always will remain the "best of friends." Having known one another since the about the fourth grade, Valerie Strickland and Michael Smith have found a rare and unforgettable friendship. Many people feel that it is near impossible for a girl and boy to be just friends. They, however, are the exception.

Their friendship began to really develop in high school. Being in the same homeroom every year, it gave them the chance to really get to know one another as well as to help each other with their problems. It just so happened that they ended up going to the same college. They did not hang around each other much during their freshman year (different friends, different priorities). However, whenever they came home for break or on the weekends, they would spend hours talking into the night about school and everything. The following year, they began to have the same friends so they were able to spend more time together.

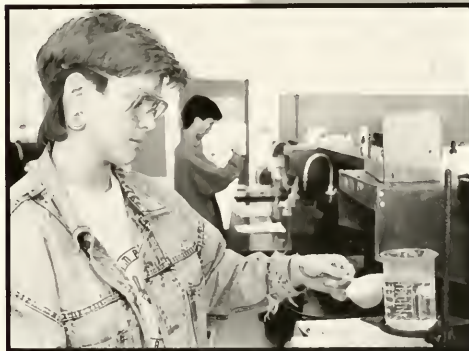

They feel as though they have developed an "unconditional friendship." It's more like they are brother and sister, yet closer probably than some. Aside in some ways, they share a considerable number of differences. One likes to socialize with his many friends, while the other prefers to hang out with smaller crowds made up of a few good friends. One studies forever, the other seldom studies. One has mood swings, and the other is beginning to experience mood swings. One has his life planned to a "T" and is ready to settle down while the other is uncertain about the future but is certain that she wants to travel and not yet settle down. Nevertheless, they have found a happy medium on which to base their friendship, accepting each other for what he or she is. Even working so closely this year on the yearbook, many people wondered if they would be able to maintain their friendship or would one of them fill the other. In response, they said, "We work on two different levels. Yearbook is more of a business with each entitled to his or her own opinion. Our friendship is something completely separate. If we disagree on things, we disagree, but it's not taken personally and is forgotten as soon as it is said."

They both agree, however, that they will always remain friends no matter how far they are from one another. It won't even matter if they lose contact for a while, each will be there for the other if ever one needs a shoulder or an ear to listen. They can't wait until they're old and they can sit down with their grandchildren and tell of the years gone by and how they were among the fortunate few to develop and maintain an everlasting friendship.

CANDIDS

Candid, and More Candid

"A Streetcar Named Desire"

The Campbell Players gave one of their most outstanding performances in A Streetcar Named Desire. For six nights in February, 1990, the actors and actresses brought their characters to life with emotion, movement, and personality.

Donna Jo McIntyre magnificently portrayed Blanche, an alcoholic recently fired from her job. As printed in the The Campbell Times, Mr. Daniel A. Linney, director of dramatic arts, stated that Blanche "is one of the most difficult roles on American stage to do well." Other members of the cast included Beth Davis (Eunice Hubbell), Jason Lemmons (a young collector), Tonya Madison (Nurse), Anthony Mitchell (Steve Hubbell), Phillip Mixen (Pablo Gonzalez), Matt Pittman (Doctor), Dan Towery (Mitch), Leanne Webb (Stella), and Todd Weeks (Stanley). The Campbell Players' unforgettable performance in A Streetcar Named Desire is one that will be almost impossible to top.

"Tennessee Williams' A Streetcar Named Desire is probably one of the best scripts that can be produced on the stage today. From an actor's point of view, the characters are very intricate and a wonderful challenge to portray."

"Guys and Dolls"

For two consecutive weeks, the Campbell

Players presented their annual fall play in Ellis Theater. They performed Guys and Dolls, Broadway's fifth longest running musical, with professionalism and creativity. Taking place in the 1950's in New York city, the play is led by four main characters: Sky Masterson (Todd Weeks), Miss Sarah Brown (Leanne Webb), Nathan Detroit (Anthony Mitchell), and Miss Adelaide (Beth Davis). The opposite lifestyles of the Hot Box nightclub and the Salvation Army Mission reflect the gambling men and the romantic women of Guys and Dolls.

Under Mr. Dan Linney's direction, auditions were open to students, faculty, and interested community members. As Linney said, "It is getting more and more difficult to do a musical, and even more difficult to find people that are willing to give their time, energy, and total commitment." The dedication of the cast of Guys and Dolls resulted in an excellent performance.

good in subjects with which you are having difficulty. Thus, together you learn, share and overcome problems.

In the dorms, you also come to know a new set of people including the RAs, RDs, and model students. These friendly faces are always around to lend a helping hand or a listening ear. They handle problems in order to make it the best year it can be, as well as one full of academic success. We will fondly remember these friends when we look back on our college years.

Valentine's Dance

Enjoying one of the slower melodies of the dance was Keith King and his date.

The night of February 16, was magical and special for couples at Campbell University. As darkness fell, couples were preparing themselves for a night of romance. Couples arrived at the Holiday Inn, in Fayetteville on I-95, arm-in-arm, to dance the night away. The 1990 Valentine's Dance was given by the freshmen class. Their hard work and preparation was shown in the decorations, including balloons and scenic lights, and the fabulous food that was beautifully displayed. The freshmen class really out did itself.

thing like a warm day for studying.

Let's face it, not too many of us actually enjoy studying. Unfortunately, however, we all must find the time as well as the will-power unless we plan on making college life our chosen career. Now the question that remains is "where?" Clearly, finding the perfect place is essential in creating a healthy and positive studying environment. Many students often choose to study in the library, while others prefer to study outside under the warmth of the sun. Still, others prefer the comforts of home where they have quick access to the radio, the TV and let us not forget the refrigerator! Clearly, though places may vary, the goal of STUDYING must be achieved.

PINE BURR SALUTES

The Pine Burr staff annually recognizes two people who make a difference at Campbell by the extra effort they devote to the University. The yearbook staff requests nominations for a student and a non-executive staff member. The response this year was overwhelming.

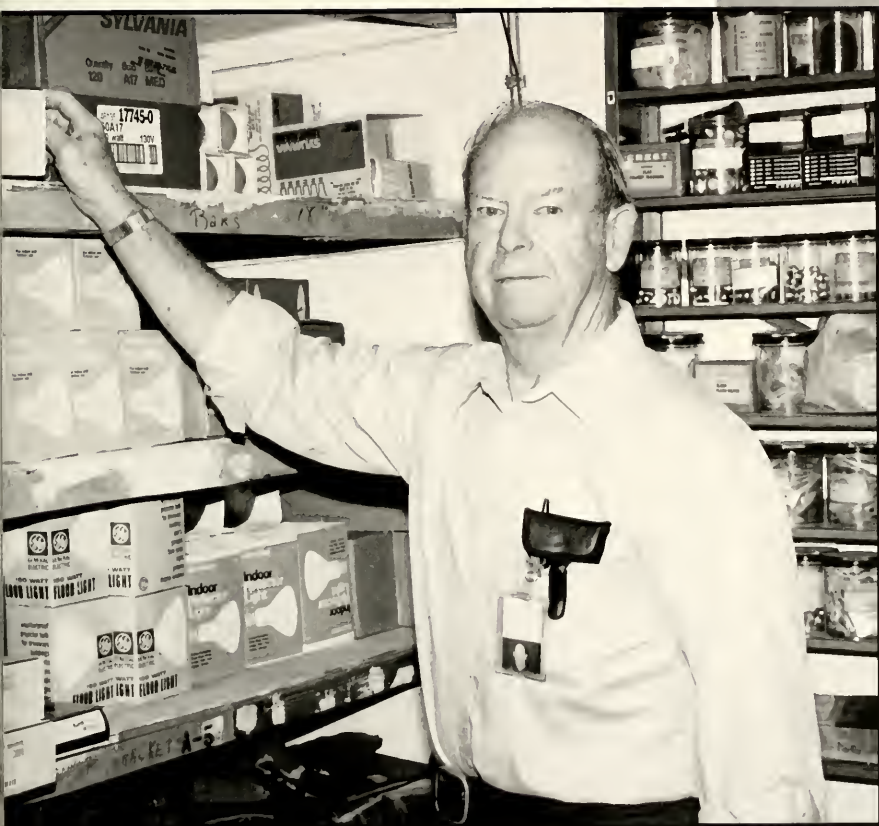

Over thirty nominations for the two categories found their way to the Pine Burr office. Though it was difficult to make a decision, the recipients of this year's awards are definitely deserving of recognition.

Melanie Stewart was chosen as the winner in the student category. She has made quite a difference for Campbell University and the surrounding communities. Stewart is the driving force behind the Campbell Mission Force. She originally began the program by herself. Her mission was to help the needy by finding clothing and food for families experiencing financial difficulties. She was successful in her efforts, but decided a group could reach more people than she could alone. She sought to get fellow students involved in the project and found quite a few interested in what she was doing. Stewart and the Campbell Mission Force work hard to make a difference, and it shows.

Theresa Durden

PEOPLE WHO MAKE A DIFFERENCE

The non-executive staff category goes to the Supervisor of Services at Campbell's physical plant. The nominations received for Lotes Holmes were quite moving.

Holmes duties range from cleaning out apartment refrigerators to moving large pieces of furniture. He is noted for his cheerful character and his willingness to go it on a limb for people without a single complaint.

GRADUATION

An outdoor ceremony marked the setting for Campbell University's 104th Commencement Exercise held on Monday, May 7. Dr. Daniel Nona, executive director of the American Council on Pharmaceutical Education, delivered the graduation address. Six hundred ninety one undergraduate, graduate, and doctoral degrees were awarded. This graduation marked the first awarding of pharmacy doctoral degrees in the school's history. Forty three members of the charter class of the Pharmacy School crossed the stage to receive this honor.

Dr. Nona told the Campbell graduates that this is "recognition of a major departure for you from that which has existed and that which will exist." He also acknowledged that the students should look to their "values as guiding principles, particularly the precepts of truth, tolerance, and faith."

Dr. Nona was awarded an honorary degree of Doctor of Science during the graduation exercises. Also presented was the Algernon Sydney Sullivan Award to Miss Minnie Lamm of Wilson, a member of the Board of Trustees and a major benefactor of the University, and Cynthia Balogh, a graduating senior from Havelock.

Receiving diplomas at Campbell were students of the Lundy-Fetterman School of Business, the School of Education, the College of Arts and Sciences, the School of Pharmacy and the Norman Adrian Wiggins School of Law.

CAMPUS

According to Webster's, the word "campus" means the "grounds of a university". All the groups that fall under this category of campus not only cover the whole campus, but work from the ground up to make sure every aspect of your college career runs smoothly. The Student Government Association works diligently to provide a better college environment for the student body. With everything from new ways of thinking to new ways of doing, they have got it covered. The poetry magazine Lyriscist and the International Students Organization also come under the "Campus" divider because they help in broadening a student's liberal arts perspective through poetry and prose and through communication with different people from various cultural backgrounds.

The true beauty of our campus is noted best during a winter snowfall.

The Campbell University SGA is the students' forum for expressing ideas and suggestions which concern the University. The purpose of the SGA is to represent the student body and to ensure that the students have a channel for making suggestions and for discussing their concerns. The SGA consists of nine members from each class, two pharmacy representatives, and ten executive officers. The members are elected in the spring for the following school year. The advisor is Dean Melvin. Prominent accomplishments so far this year have included the enlargement and renovation of the Day Student Lounge, a pay phone for day students, and the purchase of a change machine.

The Student Government Executive Committee is made up of ten elected members. These members represent the student body in meetings with the university president and his cabinet. They also help the faculty to understand what the students of Campbell would like to see changed or improved. This job is not always an easy one. Patience, time and the will to be able to stand up for the student body is needed. The Executive Committee members are elected leaders and always strive to perform their jobs to the best of their ability.

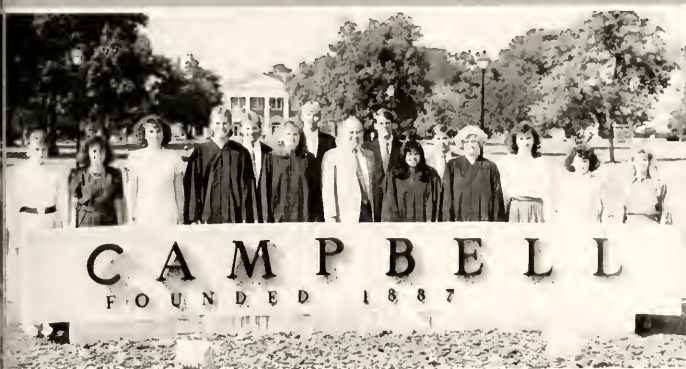

Michael Smith

The Conduct Council is composed of students, faculty and Student Life staff members who act as a hearing board when allegations of misconduct are brought against other students. Student representation on the council includes an elected airman and the four undergraduate class presidents. They are committed to assuring fairness and consistency in all decisions. The allegations heard cover a wide range of misconduct and are based on the Student Code which is part of the SGA By Laws.

C C O O N U D N U C I T L

Formed three years ago, this SGA group was composed of students and faculty. It hears complaints of academic dishonesty brought against Campbell students under the university's Academic Honor Code. This code is intended to protect the interests of the student body as a whole by assuring the credibility of diplomas. The hearing process protects individual student from false allegations of misconduct and permits sanctions to be imposed based on individual circumstances.

Women's Executive Council

Getting involved with everyone is this club's ultimate goal. Self-discipline and time-management help these ten members uphold leadership qualities. The members must be female residents of dorms on Women's Campus. This year the council sponsored the dream date contest and several dances.

The end of the year party for the dorms is just one of the many activities that for which the men's executive council is responsible.

Rules

Committee

The Campbell University Rules Committee has the complicated job of making sure that the constitution expresses the wishes of the Student Congress. In 1988, Cynthia Balough was noted as having said that she thought "as the constitution changed it would become more near perfect so that the only job for the Rules Committee would be to deal with changes to the by-laws", but that day has not yet arrived.

Elections

The Elections Committee was headed this year by Jon Wagner, and was one of the bigger SGA committees. The committee is responsible for preparing the elections calendar each spring and conducting special and scheduled elections throughout the school year. Its members make sure that campaign rules and voting procedures are observed.

Finance

The Finance Committee is in its second year of existence at Campbell University. The committee is made up of the treasurers from each class plus the Day Student President, Men's Campus President and Women's Campus President. The Committee is headed by the Executive Treasurer. Their objective is to make sure that funds are allocated fairly and wisely and assure that maximum benefit is derived from each dollar spent.

Homecoming

The Homecoming Committee had another excellent year. Only in its second year of existence, its members brought back a lot of experience from last year's committee and really took charge. Their goal was to reevaluate events from the previous year, make adjustments and improvements as necessary, and assure a smooth execution of all events. The members of this group can surely take pride in their achievements.

Research

The Research Committee, headed by David Lewis, spent much of the year looking into a computerized meal plan for the campus. They also came up with the ideas of a book rental system, a SGA newsletter and small improvements in the cafeteria. A lot of time was spent developing a HELP program for international students and dyslexic students.

This organization consists of club presidents and representatives from every student organization on campus. There are forty-five members whose main function is to serve as a coordinating body for the activities of represented organizations.

As a product of their activities, representatives learn leadership skills applicable both to college and the world outside. IOC sponsors participation by member organizations in Homecoming, Parents' Day and the Red Cross blood drive each fall.

This group is truly a melting pot for all non-citizens of the United States. Students learn from cultural and social customs. Also they learn from the interactions that they have with students from America and students that are from other countries. Their creed is "To foster understanding and camaraderie among international students and others in the University village."

SERVICE

Pine Burr is just one of the groups that are of service to you here at Campbell.

From UFO's to the latest breaking news stories, service organizations provide an abundance of information here at Campbell. Just think of what life would be like without Service Enterprises or Computer Lab Assistants. Without these groups, Campbell would have no yearbook, no newspaper, and no photographs. Without the newspaper, a part of Campbell's history might never be recorded for future generations. Think about it.

Inett Scarborough is just one of the many tuganipres that work for Service Enterprises.

This group of students are high achievers. Members are eligible only if they have been awarded a presidential scholarship. Most members are on the Dean's List or the President's List and are very active in other campus organizations. The group's main purpose is to aid the admission's office and assist in interviewing candidates for the presidential scholarship competition. They also serve as tour guides for prospective Campbell students.

University Friends Organization

Approximately one hundred and thirty-five returning students volunteered to serve as UFOs during the fall orientation program (new student welcome) for freshmen and transfer students. These student volunteers greeted new students, helped them move into dorms, and guided them through two days of orientation and registration. The University Friends Organization (UFO) was organized for the purpose of assisting new students in making the transition to campus life at Campbell and helping new students feel good about themselves and Campbell. The success of the UFO Program is measured by the positive comments from new students, and by the number of last year's "new students" who volunteered to serve as UFOs this year.

Service Enterprise

What a group of bush workers! Service Enterprises can't afford to have slow people working for them. This group of students and staff are responsible for most of the picture taking that goes on at Campbell University. These dedicated workers send night and day taking pictures and printing them. A big thanks goes out to Service Enterprises from Organizations!

Here's one for the papers. The Campbell Times had barely moved into its NEW office in the Fine Arts building (some publications have all the luck) when they found out that the editor, Dawn Shelton was going to be sent to Saudi Arabia. Talk about a traumatic change! Well, they didn't let that stop them. Cassy Manogue took over the vacant position and got everything off to a great start. Not only did the Campbell Times get a new editor, they also received another advisor in addition to the one they already had. Mr. Milton Jordan joined forces with Mr. Dan Ensley to produce one of the best newspapers Campbell has ever seen. The paper underwent many changes itself. This was all done with the aid of a new computer that allowed them more flexibility in layouts and typestyles. Clearly, these new changes proved to be a positive side to what looked like a bleak beginning. Many students commented that the changes that had taken place in the paper made it more enjoyable and exciting to read. Remember folks, you read it here first!

PINE BURR

Each spring, the yearbook is born again in Room 30 of the Student Center. It begins to grow and take shape in the minds of a new editor and a new assistant editor as they develop the ladder of pages and establish specifications for the next year's book. The process is a slow one at first, but by the time the middle of the fall semester rolls around, it turns into mass hysteria. The editor and the assistant have evolved into a whole staff, all of whom are running around, cropping pictures, designing new layouts, and writing fresh copy. The only problem is they don't always get everything completed on time. This will cause definite problems later on down the road when everyone wants to know, "Where is my yearbook?" Around the middle of January, the mass hysteria begins to calm down slowly, but the work is not quite over yet. As the process begins to come to an end, a new book is already starting up again. It is a never ending story.

LAB ASSISTANTS

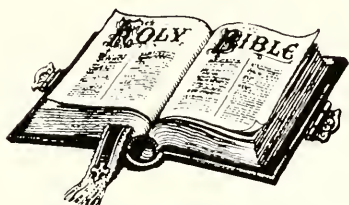

The Academic Computer Center was comprised of thirteen student employees. Members of this group served as Computer Lab Assistants. Each must have had a working knowledge of computer equipment, programming languages and software. Their job was to help students operate the computers and answer any questions when no one else was available in the computer center.

Religion Club

This organization is open to religion majors or those interested in church related vocations. There are approximately thirty members under the leadership of club advisor, Dr. Dean Martin, and club president, Rigba Wolfe. The religion club's main goal is to help students gain a greater understanding of church related vocations and ministry skills.

BAPTIST

Baptist

Student

Union

Perhaps the largest club on campus year after year is the Baptist Student Union. This year the one hundred and fifty member organization gathered together once a week to fellowship and share in love "agape" style. On Thursdays the group got together to have fun learning about their jobs as campus crusaders through Bible study. The sponsor of B.S.U. is Rev. Grover Blackburn, the campus minister. The B.S.U. participated in several on-campus and off-campus events through their outreach and clown teams.

Traffic Committee

The newly formed Student Traffic Committee is composed of the four undergraduate class presidents, the Day Student President, representatives from the Norman A. Wiggins School of Law and the Pharmacy School, the Directors of Public Safety, and Residence Life, and the Dean of Student Life. The committee is chaired by the Senior Class President and meets every two weeks to hear parking ticket appeals and make recommendations for improvements in parking and traffic control.

CEP Checkers

Cultural Enrichment Program (C.E.P) checkers are employees of the Campus Minister, Grov Blackburn. Their job is to insure the attendance of students each Tuesday and Thursday during CEP.

A combination of chapel, cultural and informational programs, four semesters of the Cultural Enrichment Program is required for all students before graduating. Guests range from Dr. R.G. Puckett-editor of the Biblical Recorder, to Mr. C.C. Hopson, director of the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation and include Max McLean, who delivered a dramatic presentation of the Gospel Mark.

CAMPBELL MISSIONS FORCE

Founded by Melanie Stewart two semesters ago, this club's credo is "to give food to the hungry, clothes to the naked, homes to the homeless and to feed the soul that is hungry spiritually." The twenty members are active throughout the year. A fairly young club, yet its members could be found working continuously, whether it was holding canned food and clothes drives, doing house repairs, or cutting the grass for senior citizens.

BYW

If you're a woman, you meet all the requirements for membership in the Baptist Young Women. Fun, loving, active, and committed to the Lord, this small group held meetings twice a month to learn more about missions and the teachings of Jesus Christ. Their focus was on missions and support for home and foreign missionaries. Through mission projects, Bible studies and various other activities, Baptist Young Women provided an opportunity for fellowship as well as friendship on campus.

Designed to bring together athletic supporters as well as athletes in the learning and sharing of Jesus Christ, FCA met weekly to grow spiritually and shared in Bible studies, discussion and fellowship. The group also took their knowledge of the word of God outside of the university and into other colleges and surrounding high schools. The club was founded on the Lordship of Christ.

Catholic Young Adults

Everyone just seems to wonder what that could be in the sky.

In a predominately Protestant campus, it's nice to know that you can still find fellowship through the Catholic Young Adults. This group of thirteen members raises money for St. Joseph's School and gets together to study Catholic Doctrine. The group is sponsored by Dean Herb Kerner.

Professional Clubs

These are the "movers and shakers" at Campbell. Each of these groups provides a taste of the real world for students. With guest speakers, seminars and internships, students learn how to succeed and prepare for a life after Campbell. Individualism, assurance, and motivation separates the winners from the losers in the business world. This organization teaches its members how to be among the winners.

Dr. Vaughan is just one of the many advisors for the Professional Clubs here at Campbell University.

As you can see, these ladies enjoy being in their professional club.

C U B S

CUBS is a club geared toward those who are interested in all aspects of Broadcasting. Each year this group of fifty plus members offers students a chance to meet professionals in the Broadcasting industry. This year the club sponsored a funniest video contest and is very active in Homecoming Parent's Day and C.E.P.

Omega Nu Alpha was founded at Campbell in 1987. The goal of this service fraternity was to unite minorities on campus. The group participated in a wide variety of campus activities including Homecoming events. By being active in campus projects, they increased club membership and became one of the more well known service organizations on campus. Although the club was only in its fourth year, its members were able to pride themselves on having made measurable strides toward their goal.

ADAM SMITH CLUB

The Adam Smith Club provides students with an insight into the practices of the free enterprise system. By frequently hosting distinguished speakers, the club gives the student body as a whole an opportunity to hear the views of business leaders. The club has conducted several raffles for charity and contributes to the support of needy families at Christmas.

PRSSA

The Public Relations Student Society of America is an extension of the National Professional Organization- The Public Relations Society of America. This organization was granted its official charter in May of 1989. Campbell's charter is one of only three in North Carolina. The society gives students an understanding of modern theories and procedures, instills a professional attitude and encourages students to adhere to the highest ideals of the practice of public relations.

The Accounting and Financial Planning Club helps students gather new information and perspective about accounting and financial planning in the business world. The club provides information that is useful in gaining insight into possible careers in accounting and financial planning. Speakers are frequently brought to the campus to address club members about accounting and financial planning related topics.

MATH CLUB

Interested in Math? These people are. Club members try to show the world that math people are not dull and that math can truly be fun. The Math Club exposes its members to the different fields in math, as well as providing a chance for students to meet others. The club sponsored a math contest this year and participated in various campus activities.

Academic Clubs

Academic clubs play a very important role on our campus. These clubs are made up of those individuals who strive for excellence in the classroom. They spend countless hours studying for exams and writing term papers.

These people can't always be found in the library. Many of these students are involved in other activities such as athletics, choir and drama.

The academic and honor clubs provide a service to the community. Many have adopted highways while others have raised funds for local charities and organizations.

Phi Kappa Phi

It is an honor to be elected to participate in this club. A student is inducted into this prestigious organization if he or she is in the top 10% of the class in his or her senior year and in the top 25% in his or her junior year. This club includes faculty and undergraduates from all majors.

The national organization was founded in 1924 while the Gammi Chi chapter of Campbell was chartered in 1987. Members of this honor society are under the skillful advisement of Mr. Tim Snell, a graduate of Campbell.

OMICRON DELTA KAPPA

ODK is a national leadership honor society established to recognize outstanding college leaders and academic achievers. The society consists of juniors and seniors who are in the top thirty-five percent of their class with a grade point average of 2.85 or better. Each of the nineteen members has shown leadership qualities and has had no disciplinary sanctions imposed against them. ODK recognizes and awards the undergraduate student of the year, teacher of the year, law student of the year, and outstanding alumni of the year. This year ODK sponsored a card drive to send cards from Campbell students to the service personnel deployed to the Middle East.

Political Clubs

Politics are a very important issue on any college campus. Students have different views on all types of political issues such as abortion, death penalty, and taxes. Campbell is no different than other schools that support or are against these type of issues. Politics seem to have been "the topic" last semester as the Democrats went head-to-head with the Republicans in the North Carolina senate race. The Gant-Helms race made national headlines. The College Democrats and Republicans both rallied for their candidate on and off the campus. NCSL(North Carolina Student Legislature) was also very active this year, passing resolutions and bringing political figures to our campus.

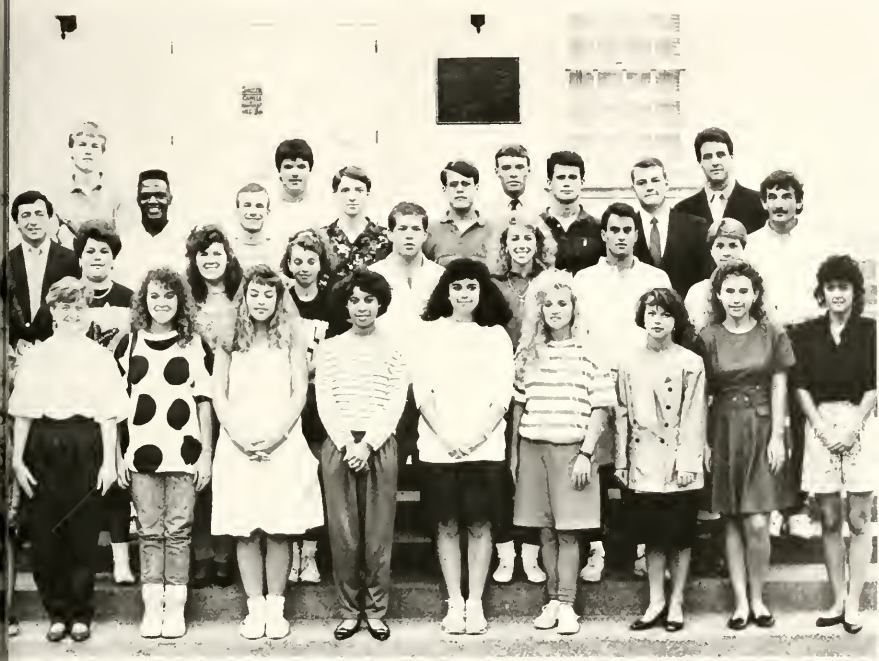

The American Flag is a uniform representation of all the political parties that are represented in our nation.

CUPSA

The Campbell University Political Science Association is a newly formed club which helps students learn about government and history. By encouraging participation in those activities planned by the executive council, the members stimulate the interests of students at Campbell in government. Thus, this club's goal is to promote the growth of information available to the public and to create an interest in the workings of the government.

This forty member chapter of Students for America was founded last year and has proven unusually successful in attracting new participants. Members share a common interest in America and its future with counterparts throughout the United States. Students are given an opportunity to develop leadership and political skills through the local and national activities of the organization.

The Campbell Choir underwent several minor changes this year. Besides the addition of new members to the choir, the choir was frequently combined with the chorale. The choir performed at many churches throughout the area and also gave concerts at school and during CEP. The choir was under the direction of Dr. Cenieth Elmore and Dr. Robert Piper. The majority of the songs performed were sacred music.

Brass Ensemble

This small group of six consists of a combination of sounds from trombones to trumpets. The group plays mostly classical selections and hymns. They perform in area churches and during the fall and spring concerts held at Campbell.

Craig Barnes blows his tuba with precision.

Practice is a part of every instrumentalists life. John McIntyre practices for an upcoming concert.

Wind Ensemble

For the past ten years, a major conductor has been invited to the campus in late November to lead the annual "Wind Conductor's Workshop." During this time, the conductor teaches basic conducting techniques to students, faculty and various band directors from all over the state. Conductors lead the wind ensemble in selected compositions as the clinician critiques their abilities and offers suggestions for improvement. Encompassing two days, the program has left participants feeling very enlightened and amazed at how much band directing is sometimes taken for granted. Past clinicians have included Eugene Corporon-Michigan State and Cincinnati Conservatory, and Allen McMurrary-University of Colorado, Samuel Adler-Eastman School of Music. The clinician for this year is Michael Haithcock, Director of Bands, Baylor University.

ENSEMBLE

This is one of the most interesting groups on campus. The fifteen member group breaks away from "sleepy, elevator music" and

ROTC

Much attention has been given this year to the military and our nation's involvement in the Middle East crisis. A new wave of patriotism has spread across the nation. Campbell University's R.O.T.C. program is training young men and young women to protect and defend a way of life precious to every one of us who call ourselves Americans.

Under the leadership of their Commander, Cadet Major William L. Crowley, and Cadet First Sergeant, Manuel Reyes, the Campbell Company cadets are active both in campus activities and cadet training. The Campbell cadets train in exercises at Fort Bragg and spend many hours learning the ways of the military. The ROTC Cadet Command recognized Campbell cadets as true leaders as they again performed with top honors this past summer at Advanced Camp at Fort Bragg. The Campbell cadets finished in the top 30% of all camp cadets. This high level of performance was rewarded by the honor of receiving the Governor's Trophy and the MacArthur Foundation recognizing Campbell as the best, small university ROTC program in the nation for the second year in a row.

The Campbell Company Raiders is a highly dedicated and motivated group of individuals. This organization is open to any student on campus who desires the opportunity to find the personal challenges that only the Raiders can offer. Rappelling, mountaineering, rope bridges, water survival, and infantry tactics are just a few of the many exciting opportunities that are afforded to interested members. Under the leadership of Cadet Sergeant Major Edward Gonzalez, the Raider team participates in many activities both on and off campus. Included in their off campus events, the Raiders thrive for their annual white water rafting trip, and on campus, the team loves to show skills that they have mastered and host area high school Junior ROTC units. In order to earn the honor of wearing the black beret, each individual must pass the Army physical fitness test, complete a 10k ruck march, negotiate a swim test, and rappel from a 40-foot tower. The honor of the Raiders remains in the challenge.

The Campbell Company Color Guard is a highly skilled, disciplined group of cadets. At over 30 events each year, members maintain proficiency in both drill and ceremonies. These highly dedicated cadets represent Campbell University at various athletic events, military ceremonies, as well as at local community activities. The Campbell Company Color Guard stands tall and ready and takes great pride in presenting the Red, White, and Blue.

The Campbell battalion Ranger Challenge team, coached by Cpt. Tommy Facison, leads the way for varsity sport challenges. The nine member team is extremely motivated, dedicated and consistently places as one of the top teams within the region. The members dedicate six days a week to training, often times training twice a day. The Ranger Challenge team captain is Cadet Major Robert Davidson and he leads the way on the physical and mental training for the team. During competition, the team is required to perform the Army physical fitness test, rope bridge construction, marksmanship, weapons assembly, orienteering, hand grenades, and a 10k road march in full combat gear. This is an elite group of challenge seekers who perform above and beyond all standards; they set their own.

Campbell University Stands For Something: Rare Excellence

A current country song favorite has a line I believe: "You've got to stand for something or you'll fall for anything." That thought recirculated in my mind last week while visiting Campbell University, an institution where President Norman Wiggins and his team have compiled a remarkable record while providing an education with an emphasis on Judeo-Christian values. Or, should I say, the students have achieved such a record while Wiggins & CO. created a significant new Southern university in the last two decades from a small century-old Baptist church college in the coastal plain 30 miles south of Raleigh.

College Education Guaranteed

Wiggins guarantees any student who wants a college education the chance to get one at Campbell, no matter what the financial circumstances. He benefited from such an attitude when he went there from Burlington in the early 1940s.

Campbell U. started a law school 15 years ago when everybody told them it would never happen. Today 97% of its graduates pass their state bar, a figure 9% higher than the national average.

Wiggins was a Wake Forest law professor when tapped as Campbell President. He wanted a law school that turned out graduates ready to practice in the small towns of North Carolina and who could find their way around the county courthouse from earlier practical experience.

Wiggins also was once a bank trust officer, and Campbell has the nation's only undergraduate program in trust management. Banks swarm to the campus to recruit its graduates.

Training Pharmacists, Soldiers

The nation's first new pharmacy school in nearly 40 years graduated its first class at Campbell last spring. All 47 of the graduates passed both their national and state exams on first try, surely a record. For two of the last three years, Campbell has had the most outstanding pharmacy students in the nation.

Dean Ronald Maddox says he is trying to turn out community pharmacists as well as research pharmacists. "The community pharmacists has more patient contact than any other health-care individual. The patient probably knows the pharmacists better, feels more at ease, less rushed and less in awe of his pharmacists than his physician. He likely feels freer to talk openly and honestly."

At the height of the Vietnam war protests and the removal of ROTC from many campuses, President Wiggins — himself a Marine four years during World War II — established a Campbell ROTC unit. It must be the best in the country today, judging from these awards.

Each summer, the Army tests the mettle of college units at one of three advanced camps. Each camp puts approximately 3,500 rising senior cadets through rough paces. Campbell competes against all schools from New England through the Carolinas, including the largest public and private universities such as Ivy League schools. For each of the last three years, Campbell's battalion has been best at its camp, winning 17 of 19 awards passed out for most proficient.

Campbell's Ranger Challenge Team won top honors in the Carolina's last fall, beating 22 other teams, including The Citadel and N.C. State, which finished second and third, respectively. This spring, the team hopes to win the eastern regional.

Last year, the unit was judged best ROTC in the nation among small universities, bringing it the MacArthur Award.

Campbell has turned out about 550 lieutenants. Because of the satellite campuses at eastern N.C. military bases such as nearby Fort Bragg or Camp Lejeune, Wiggins estimates the college has between 1,200 and 1,500 of its alumni or students involved in the Persian Gulf war.

Campbell was pleased this month to have been rated among the top 5% of safest U.S. campuses for women.

Its Greatest Disappointment

The achievement list goes on. While talking with President Wiggins and some of his key colleagues last week about what their students and they have accomplished, I asked the president what was his greatest disappointment. For a man with so many attainments during his 24-year presidency and a 5000-person campus studded with student success, what would Wiggins answer?

"My greatest disappointment is the evidence of a decline, a lack of reverence, in all aspects of the life of a student. The break-up of the home, the nonteaching of values to youngsters and the declining influence of the church—all have combined to bring about this decline in appreciation of reverence and what it stands for. I've noticed that over these past two decades. Those factors have got to be addressed." Maybe the country songwriter had noticed the same thing.

At the core of Campbell learning is Wiggins' insistence that the teacher stand for something: Judeo-Christian values. Campbell does not believe in a value-free environment, although it encourages exploration of contrary views. Wiggins told his faculty early on: "It is not enough to just instill a love of learning. The character of the student must be deepened. The school should impart a love for country and lead the students to dedicate themselves to the idealism that distinguished America at its best."

Campbell University doesn't fall for anything. It stands for something.

The Executive Cabinet

Front: Dr. Norman A. Wiggins-President, Dr. Jerry Wallace-Vice President for Academic Affairs and Provost; Back: Mr. Willis Brown-Vice President for Development, Mr. Leonard Johnson-Vice President for Business and Treasurer.

The President's Executive Committee is composed of the President, the Provost and Vice President of Academic Affairs, the Vice President for Advancement and the Business Manager. The committee meets at least weekly in the congenial atmosphere of the Pin Burr room in Marshbanks Dining Hall to hear reports and proposals by senior faculty and staff members. Meetings frequently begin as early as 7 a.m. and are so scheduled that the academic deans and heads of major departments have an opportunity to discuss the ongoing operation of the university with the President and his committee at least once monthly.

Business Office

When it comes to money, there is one group of individuals who make it work for you, the University Business Office. Mr. Leonard Johnson, Vice President for Business and Treasurer, oversees the activities in the office which include student accounts receivable, accounts payable, purchasing, personnel, and budget formulation and implementation. Most clubs and organizations set up accounts through the business office to handle their money. The operation of the physical plant, laundry, bookstore, cafeterias, golf course, service station, Service Enterprises, the radio station, Admissions and varsity Athletics are handled through the business office. The business office is responsible for handling every aspect of the students accounts from loan checks to charging textbooks.

ADVANCEMENT

The Advancement Office obtains support from three basic areas: scholarships, fundraising, and public relations. The scholarship money is received through the support of many people who are dedicated to helping students get an education. There are also trust funds which provide money for scholarships. There are numerous fundraisers: one of the more successful being the annual alumni phone-a-thon. The phone-a-thon is conducted by students at night and usually lasts about two weeks. The public relations area plays a significant part in maintaining contact with the alumni. It does so by publishing the Prospect, which keeps alumni informed on the latest happenings.

The well being of the university is very important to everyone; support is essential for continued improvement and expansion.

The Care Givers

Student Life Department: seated: Mrs. Dorothy Mullins, Ms. Sharon Eldridge; standing: Mr. Grover Blackburn, Mr. George Wilk, Dean Phillip Melvin, Mr. Bob King, Mr. Ricky Symmonds.

The Student Life Department is responsible for caring for those who live and attend school in the "Creek". It provides a service for each student on this campus. This dedicated group makes certain that any problem that may arise is taken care of, just like home. They make sure our dorms are comfortable and our paths are safe. They also take time to arrange for entertainment on weekends. This group is headed by Dean Phillip Melvin, Mrs. Dorothy Mullins, Director of Residence Life; Mrs. Sharon Eldridge, Director of Student Activities; Rev. Grover Blackburn, Campus Minister; Mr. George Wilk, Director of Health Services; Mr. Robert King, Director of Guidance and Career Counseling/International Student Advisor; and Mr. Ricky Symmonds, Director of Public Safety.

A special thanks to each of you, and to the students who work and devote time to make everything run smoother!

ADMISSIONS OFFICE

The goal of the Admissions office is to recruit college-bound students for the university. This recruiting takes place along the East Coast from Maine to Florida. The office also recruits in the middle states such as Ohio, West Virginia, and Tennessee.

The Admissions Office receives considerable help in recruiting from the faculty, students, and alumni. The Campbell Admissions team is a member of the Carolina College Registrar and Admissions Officers. This organization allows North Carolina high school students the opportunity to meet with college representatives. The service helps students during their decision making process.

The Admission Office receives continuous support from our Financial Aid and Veteran's Affairs offices. In a great many cases, Financial Aid helps to make a student's college education possible.

SCHOOL OF EDUCATION

The School of Education was established in 1985. The School includes the departments of Military Science, Home Economics, Psychology and Social Work, as well as Education. The Education Department has made tremendous progress in the past six years, and continues to grow. The School of Education offers a number of majors and interests for everyone. Currently, Campbell is the only private college in North Carolina which offers a doctoral program in Education.

The Department of Education offers an extensive course of study for teachers to be, which includes practice and student teaching. The major areas include internships and/or field experiences. The School of Education is headed by extremely caring professors who are willing to help students achieve their goals.

SCHOOL OF BUSINESS

Since the opening of the Lundy-Fetterman School of Business in 1982, it has grown enormously in size and stature. The School of Business is headed by Dean Thomas Folwell and is divided into three departments: the Department of Business and Economics, the Department of Financial Planning and Accounting, and the Department of Computer Information Systems. As the school approaches its tenth year of service, thanks needs to be given to Burrowes J. and Mabel L. Lundy. They have been generous benefactors to the school. The Lundy's are advocates of the free enterprise system and believe in keeping the tradition of education alive.

Campbell University School of Law was established in July of 1975 by the General Board of the North Carolina Baptist State Convention. A charter class of 97 students was admitted in August of 1976. In November of 1988, the school was renamed the Norman A. Wiggings School of Law in honor of the current president of the university. The change in the name was an act of gratitude to Dr. Wiggings for his dedication in establishing and developing the Law School. The school prepares students for a life of service and leadership in their communities and instills Christian values.

The Law Library, which is located in Kivet Hall, provides an abundance of records and facilities for law students. The collection of over 120,000 volumes and volume equivalents includes law reviews, current subscriptions, federal reports, state court decisions, current statutes of all states, and an expanding collection of texts and treatises. The library has seating for 167 students, and also has conference rooms, computerized services, and audio and video tape facilities. It is open later hours than the undergraduate library to provide the law students with extra study time. Undergraduates are welcome to use the library, although its material is oriented toward the future lawyer.

Karen Sorvari, Law Librarian.

School of Pharmacy

The Campbell University School of Pharmacy was established in 1985. Last year the school graduated its charter class of fifty-four students. The school offers the Doctor of Pharmacy degree after a four year program. It contains two departments: Pharmaceutical Sciences and Pharmacy Practice. Pharmacy Practices concentrates on the application of the knowledge to a patient's benefit, and Sciences concentrates on the principles of disease, drug formulation, and drug action. The Pharmacy School received candidacy accreditation for the Doctor of Pharmacy degree by the American Council on Pharmaceutical Education. The school is dedicated to helping the student receive the best possible education and prepare them for the licenses examination given by the boards of pharmacy.

LIBRARY PERSONNEL

The Carrie Rich Memorial Library has expanded and become more sophisticated in the services it provides to Campbell students. The library has recently added two educational indexes which are available on CDs in the reference area. Two computers are available to students on which these CDs can be reviewed. There have also been individual study areas and more new books added to the library. These changes are being made to help students be more productive in their study and research. As the university expands, so does the library to better serve the students and faculty of Campbell University.

FACULTY CANDIDS

FACULTY CANDIDS

IN MEMORY OF . . .

DEAN THEO STRUM

Dr. Theo Strum, Dean of the School of Education, died October 28, 1990. Dr. Strum's death shocked her many students, as well as her colleagues.

Dean Strum received her Bachelor of Arts degree from Elon College, Master of Education from the University of North Carolina at Greensboro, and Doctor of Philosophy degree from the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill.

After holding various teaching post and serving as an assistant principal at Northern High School in Durham, Dean Strum served as Dean of Women, Professor of Education and, ultimately, Dean of Elon College until 1976. She joined the Campbell University faculty as Professor of Education at that time. Later, she was named Chairman of the Department of Education, Director of Graduate Programs in Education and Dean of the School of Education. Dr. Theo Strum had many great accomplishments and was a pillar in the educational process.

In his comments at her funeral, Dr. Jerry Wallace said, "Theo Strum made a place for herself in teacher education that will not be reproduced. She was a tireless person known for her excellence as a classroom teacher. Her exemplary service and love for Campbell and Buies Creek were well-known."

President Wiggins commented, "We honor one who was a true professional and a teacher in the full sense of the word. She was very special- a sympathetic counselor and a true friend."

IN MEMORY OF . . .

LONNIE D. SMALL

On December 17, 1990, we were saddened by the loss of the former Vice-president, Lonnie Dalton Small. A native of Fair Bluff, North Carolina and founder of the Holden Beach Chapel, he joined the Campbell College staff in 1950. Mr. Small was a vital and essential part in the growth of the university.

Before Mr. Small retired from Campbell University in 1989, he served as Business Manager and Treasurer as well as Secretary to the Board of Trustees.

Mr. Small had a deep and abiding faith in God. At the Holden Beach Church which he founded, he taught Sunday School and served as deacon.

Small Hall was named in his honor in 1977 by the Trustees. Campbell University President, Norman A. Wiggins said, "Lonnie D. Small has rendered outstanding service to the University. His keen mind, wise judgement and love of God and fellow man have greatly assisted Campbell in the progress she has made."

These are a few of Mr. Small's favorite Bible passages: "Trust in the Lord with all thine own understanding. In all thy ways acknowledge him, and he shall direct thy paths"- Proverbs 3:5-6, "But seek ye first the kingdom of God, and his righteousness; and all these things shall be added unto you"- Matthew 6:33.

Baseball

"A Cinderella Story"

The Campbell University baseball team, which dropped 25 of its first 30 games and endured a 11 game mid-season losing streak, peaked at year's end by capturing the Big South Conference title and an automatic bid to the NCAA Championships. Chris Wagner was named tournament MVP after recording a three-fitter in the final game against number one seeded Coastal Carolina. Campbell's scrappy play, its unique Camel mascot, and remote location made the team the media darling of the West I Regional. The Camels won the hearts of the fans as well, and Campbell T-shirts were reportedly among the hottest selling items in Palo Alto. Although their California visit was short, Campbell's impressive performance proved that the Big South is worthy of the automatic bid to the NCAA Tournament it received this year for the first time.

During the regular season, the Camel's offense was led by senior outfielder, Randy Hood. Hood, a four-year starter, batted .336 and received All-Conference honors for the second straight season. Junior outfielder, Mike Adcock and sophomore, catcher J.C. Hendrix also had outstanding seasons at the plate.

Coach Caldwell summed up the end of the season turnaround by stating, "We were a totally inexperienced team at the start of the season. We only had seven pitchers, and the whole staff had only 70 innings of college experience between them. The team came into its own late in the season and we started hitting the ball."

C.U. Soccer

"Faced Tough Schedule"

Despite the fact that Campbell University's soccer team faced one of its toughest schedules ever, second-year head coach Barry Howard had just cause for being optimistic upon entering the 1990 season. C.U. had ten starters who would return from the previous year's squad that had won 12 matches and advanced to the Big South Conference championship game. The lone starter not returning, graduated goalie Peter Moore, was replaced by junior Chris O'Byrne, who is a talented and experienced collegiate goalkeeper. Jofin Payne, a central midfielder and the Big South Conference Player of the year, returned for his senior season. Also back for his senior campaign was Juha Miettinen. He was the high-scoring forward who was the 1988 Big South Player of the year. "In constructing what I feel is perhaps Campbell's toughest schedule ever, I took into consideration the fact that we are a mature team of outstanding individuals which has developed over the past two or three years into a cohesive unit," says Coach Howard. "I am excited by our possibilities."

Soccer can be a tough sport on the body; especially the head.

MEN'S BASKETBALL

The 1990-91 men's basketball season was set to be a landmark campaign in Campbell University memoirs. Nine letter winners and three starters returned from the 1989-90 club that had finished the year 15-13 and was second in the Big South regular season standings. Sophomores Steve Hamilton and Bobby Murray, who played backup roles for Brad Childress last year, were pushing for time at the point this season. Coach Billy Lee has proven to be a winner at CU, leading the team to back-to-back winning seasons since the school joined NCAA I in 1977-78. Now he must mold nine returnees with five noted newcomers, and perhaps produce Campbell's first team to receive a post-season bid since the 1976-77 squad advanced to the finals of the NAIA National Tournament. "The whole league, without a doubt from one to eight, is going to be more balanced this year," says Lee. "If you can win your home games and half of your road games, then you're going to have a good chance."

WOMEN'S BASKETBALL

After two successive seasons of slow starts and fantastic finishes, Campbell University's head women's basketball coach, Wanda Watkins, was hoping for a more consistent effort during the 1990-91 season.

A year ago the Lady Camels righted themselves after winning only three of their first ten games and completed the school's seven-teenth consecutive non-losing season. They then advanced to the league title contest for the fourth straight year.

This season, Watkins has all eleven players back from the 89-90 club which posted a 14-14 overall mark and 8-4 Big South ledger, plus two touted newcomers. Seven of the thirteen roster players are either freshmen or sophomores, a point that Watkins is quick to stress.

According to the Lady Camel coach, the 90-91 schedule could have an impact on her team's performance. "By far, this is the toughest schedule ever at Campbell," says Watkins. "Because we're so young, I don't know if we will respond to such a tough early schedule. But I feel we'll be a lot stronger when we open our conference schedule because of the tough early season," says the Camel coach.

SOFTBALL

'Sluggin' away at the Big South

Head Coach Julie Brzezinski's team completed its most successful season since joining the NA Division I in 1986-87. The year coach was named Big South Conference Coach of the Year turning the team into a title contender. Last year's team completed its year with an 8-18 overall record and 1-7 in Big South play. Some key veterans provided the strength and leadership. April Moore, a sophomore, fielded a team-high .978 at first base and was also selected All-Tournament after batting .429. Cheryl Fletcher, a sophomore, was voted All-Conference shortstop and was also the team's MVP for the season. Junior Yuko Inove was chosen as All-Big South second baseman and proved to be equally impressive as the team's pitcher.

Prepping for her next hit, Chris Bueno warms up in the batting cage.

MEN'S TENNIS

"Acing the Big South"

Head Coach Kenny Doyle celebrated the 90's season by capturing the teams second straight Big South Conference Championship. The individual play of Rodrigo Cagide was a key factor in the victory with the clinching of his third straight Big South Conference singles and doubles championship. Cagide, a junior from Guadalajara, Mexico, downed Coastal Carolina's Thomas Henderun with 6-3, 2-6, 7-5 to win the singles crown. Sophomore, Igor Brezac teamed with Cagide to win the doubles title. Levente Nandori claimed the number three singles title; Dragan Lazarevic claimed the number four crown; and Chip Starnes captured the number five crown. The teams domination of the tournament was complete when Levente Nandori and Dragan Lazarevic won the Number One doubles championship. For his role in developing the team, Coach Kenny Doyle was voted League Coach-of-the-Year. In the Region II action, the team was ranked 15th. Nandori and Lazarevic were ranked in a tie for ninth in doubles. It was a fantastic year for tennis at Campbell.

Wrestling

"New Coach Strengthens Winning Tradition"

First-year Campbell Wrestling Coach, Scott Miller, was set on proving that a young team could reach its potential and be successful in NCAA Division I competition. With only four seniors returning, underclassmen played an important role in helping the squad rebound from a 5-12 dual-meet mark a year ago. Leading the way, was Chris Howell, a 118-pounder and Coaches' Award winner in '89-'90. After posting a 24-6-2 record last season and placing third at the regional tournament, Chris had been fine-tuned for a spectacular senior year.

Seniors Scott Amundsen, Mike Sousa (177) and Junior Paul Renaud (126) were also expected to have thorough campaigns on the mat.

With the 1-2 punch of Howell and Renaud, along with the finishing touches of Sousa and Amundsen, it would not be surprising to see Campbell Wrestling back on top again.

"We as a team have tried to set goals for ourselves that we can obtain," said Miller. "That's what it would take to be successful."

MEN'S GOLF

"Playing Up To Par"

The Campbell Men's Golf team drove through the 1990 season setting a promising base for the future. First-year Coach John Crooks witnessed his Camels finish strong in various season tournaments.

The team's power came from the experience of Duane Bock, David Rainey, Lou Masini, Glen Pierce and Ken Wooten. These team members showed strong finishes including 7th out of 15 teams at The Old Dominion/Seascape Invitational, a 2nd finish of 13 teams in the Seahawk Invitational, a 2nd of 14 teams finishing in the Shadow Moss Invitational, and an impressive 3rd place finish in the Big South Tournament.

David Rainey finished the Big South Tournament tied for 5th, alongside of teammate Duane Bock who finished with a strong tie for 9th. Overall, the team was pleased with their results and ultimately saw the successful season as a stroke to future birdies.

"Making a Hole-In-One"

Under the direction of head coach, Bill Paterson, the first edition of Campbell's women's golf team went undefeated in four dual matches, then placed a solid third at the Big South Championships. Freshman Jennifer Huber finished eighth individually in the league event and was named All-Conference. The Coaches Award went to Karen Copeland and Jennifer Huber was named MVP of the team. Look for the Lady Camels to make a bigger "hole-in-one" in the Big South next year.

to Success"

The 1989-90 tennis team showed promise during a rebuilding year with a win over defending league champion, UNC Asheville. With the retirement of head coach Francis Lloyd, the team turned to the help of experienced returnees. With a fresh look and determination, a strong impact in the Big South was expected.

Amanda Smith gives it her all on the court.

Laura Ross concentrates on her backhand return.

"Building A Winning Tradition"

Under the direction of first year head coach Julie Millsaps, the Lady Spikers recorded the second most wins in Camel volleyball history. The Camels had a 9 and 23 overall record and were 1 and 6 in the Big South Conference. The Camels were knocked out of the Big South Tournament by Davidson in the quarterfinals.

Senior hitter Jennie Heires had a fantastic season and earned All Big South Honors for the second straight season. She was greatly aided by senior Beverly Shepherd who was among the conference leaders in assists. The Camels will return ten players from their current roster and should steadily improve. Coach Millsaps stated, "I feel we proved something this year, not to everyone else but to ourselves. This team has a winning attitude and success is not far away."

"Going the Distance"

Coach Ken Frenette, one of the greatest distance runners in Campbell's history, entered the 1990 Cross Country season not knowing what to expect. His team consisted of eight freshman and only two upperclassmen. Frenette knew he had new talent, but he did not know if his young team would come through at the end. He was pleasantly surprised when they did. Freshman, David Pitaro of Richmond won the individual men's title at the Big South Cross Country Championships in Summerville, SC with a 5-mile clocking of 25:53. Pitaro became the first freshman in Campbell's history to win this title. Freshman, Pete Musarra and Matt Scott, former high school teammates, finished 16th and 17th with times of 26:58 and 26:59. Senior, David Erpelding, the '88 Camel MVP, ended his career at Campbell with a respectable 25th place finish and time of 27:56. Erpelding proved to be the Camels' most consistent runner over the course of the season.

"We might have been young, but we surprised a lot of teams this season," said Frenette. "This freshman class will be the foundation of our team over the next three years. The key to the team's success this year was their love for running, the strong work ethic, and their strict discipline."

In record time, Pete Musarra passes the mile marker.

Scholar Athletes

"Redefining Student Athlete"

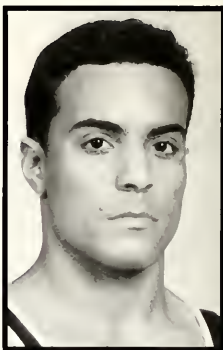

Campbell athletes pride themselves in redefining the term student athlete, by accepting the challenge of excelling not only in their chosen varsity sport, but also in the classroom. Dedicating countless hours to practice and studies, student athletes receive a well-rounded education, one that enriches them both mentally as well as physically. While in college, this may seem to be a heavy load for many students because of the hours needed for academic studies. Nevertheless, there are a number of athletes who manage to find enough hours in the day to participate in sports and be successful in the classroom, as well. These student athletes have compiled a GPA of 3.0 or better while competing in their respective sports. All are members of the Big South Conference Presidential Honor Roll.

In August of 1990, the United States began to deploy troops to Saudi Arabia for support as Iraq occupied Kuwait. Hundreds of thousands of American troops, many of Campbell's own, took up positions in the Saudi Arabian Desert. The empty photos in this section represent the emptiness in our hearts for our servicemen serving there. We salute their bravery, dedication, and service.

Perspective Enriched by Experience!

Russell Tate's perspective on graduate school is the product of a wide variety of experiences. Russell earned his Bachelor's degree in Business Administration at Campbell. Simultaneously, he served as the founding president of the Society for the Advancement of Management and participated in the Baptist Student Union. His work experience includes a four year managerial position with the national retailer, Hechinger. Based in Richmond, Virginia, Russell served as the District Training Coordinator for eight Hechinger stores. On the job exposure has given Russell significant insight into the specific skills required in today's business environment. Furthermore, he is 100% confident that he will acquire these skills through Campbell's MBA program.

Another meaningful link between Russell and Campbell is Taylor Hall. The structure was named in honor of his grandfather, Frederick L. Taylor, previous Chairman of the Board of Trustees.

In addition to attending graduate school, Russell works part time as a consultant to his father's veterinarian offices. Russell and his wife Karen, who is also a C.U. graduate, enjoy tennis and horseback riding during their leisure time.

Phi Lambda Sigma

Phi Lambda Sigma is a pharmacy leadership society whose purpose is to promote leadership in pharmacy, especially among pharmacy students, and to honor those who have achieved this goal. Phi Lambda Sigma was first organized in March, 1965 at Auburn University and was legally incorporated in Lee County, Alabama, on June 28, 1968.

Campbell's chapter of Phi Lambda Sigma is fairly new. Its first induction was held last spring on March 15, 1990. Selection for membership is based solely on leadership qualifications, and the overall leadership performance of the person is taken into account and not just their particular office. Campbell's chapter holds meetings once a semester and the national Phi Lambda Sigma meetings are held in conjunction with other national conventions. The Phi Lambda Sigma society of Campbell University has a membership of twenty college members and two Faculty advisors.

ΦΔΧ

Phi Delta Chi is a professional pharmaceutical fraternity founded in 1883. The Campbell chapter of Phi Delta Chi, Beta Kappa, is made up of 48 members. The objective of Phi Delta Chi is to advance the science of pharmacy and foster fraternal spirit among its members. During the year the fraternity is involved in many activities to help promote pharmacy in the surrounding communities. Each year the fraternity helps sponsor Poison Prevention Week at Buies Creek elementary school and a hypertension screening within the community. During homecoming Beta Kappa conducted events with nine children from Falcon's Children home in Falcon.

Beta Kappa is very proud to have been recognized nationally by receiving awards for achievement and brotherhood at our last national council held in California last summer.

Clockwise from top left: Phi Delta Chi's "Mystery Night" was a great challenge, as well as a lot of fun. Everyone is deeply involved in trying to solve the mystery of who killed Dr. Holmes. Socializing was the main event of Sports Night. The beautiful women of Phi Delta Chi. Bobby Graham plays the seductress on Dr. Holmes.

KE

The Alpha Rho chapter of Kappa Epsilon at Campbell University has served to professionally promote women in pharmacy. Kappa Epsilon was the first Pharmaceutical Fraternity on campus and has since been providing an opportunity for those who choose KE to experience a different kind of education. The Fraternity has sponsored many functions both within the Pharmacy School as well as outside the Pharmacy School. The sisters have provided fruit baskets during exams, a yearly Christmas tree, and "Drugs Are My Life" sweatshirts for the students and faculty. KE has supported the community by its support of the Health Fair, Senior Olympics, Dunn Community Pride, and by presenting the Vial-of-Life to the senior citizens of the area. This year, it was through Kappa Epsilon that the second year class became certified in CPR. As is evident, the sisters of Kappa Epsilon have built the fraternity through effort and dedication which has proven and will continue to prove to endure.

KΨ

Kappa Psi is a professional pharmacy fraternity. Its first chapter was founded in 1879. Kappa Psi's primary purpose is to promote the profession of pharmacy; however, the fraternity also prides itself in being extremely active in the community and at school. At homecoming, Kappa Psi held their annual Car Bash fundraiser and co-sponsored a picnic for all the pharmacy students and faculty with Mast Drug. The brothers and sisters of Kappa Psi also participated extensively in intramural sports and this year won the girls' Volleyball Championship. Money and clothing drives were held for the American's Children Home, which greatly helped them meet the needs of that organization. Kappa Psi is also highly visible in the community through its Adopt-A-Highway program. Additionally, the fall pledges gave of their time and energy to serve elderly persons in the area.

Rusty Mantooth and Amy Thompson ran the Rat Race at the Casino party.

ASP

The Academy of Students of Pharmacy is the student branch of the American Pharmaceutical Association. Its purpose is the promotion of the profession of pharmacy from the students point of view. ASP maintains that it is a very visible organization in the pharmacy school with a large membership that includes students from all three fraternities as well as from every class.

The members of ASP worked together continuously to provide services to the students, area pharmacists, and the community. Their activities included sponsoring Continuing Education Programs, videotaping the Graduation and Hooding Ceremonies and supplying Law Digests and OTC books to students at reduced prices. ASP is also responsible for the coordination of the annual Patient Counseling Competition that is open to all students.

ASP, a national student organization, holds annual meetings that involve students from many different chapters coming from all over the nation. The Regional Convention was held this fall in Chapel Hill and the National Convention will be held in the spring in New Orleans.

Sponsored by ASP, Peggy Yarbrough RPH, spoke at Diabetes Continuing Education Program.

First Row: Susan Corfale-Treasurer, Claudia Hardy-Secretary, Second Row: John Surplesson-President, Betsy Moore-Committee Chairperson, Row Three: Brian Jenkins-Vice Pres, Jerry Haynes-Committee Chairperson.

Members take time out, to enjoy refreshments and hold conversation before the meeting.

Helping themselves to refreshments, Dr. Connie Lee, Dr. Todd King, and Pricilla Johnston enjoy themselves at the Diabetes C.E. Program.

Prior to the ASP sponsored Continuing Education Program, Danny Lucas and Rusty Manwooth converse amongst themselves.

Charter Class Graduation

The graduation of the Charter Class proved to be an outstanding event in the brief history of Campbell University's School of Pharmacy. All forty-three graduating charter members were ecstatic upon receiving their Doctorate of Pharmacy diplomas. The diplomas symbolized the realization of all their hard work that had pioneered the way for the Pharmacy School.

Campbell's 104th Commencement Ceremony was held on Monday, May 7th, 1990 and for the first time included the School of Pharmacy. In recognition of this unique event, the keynote speaker was Dr. Daniel Nona, executive director of The American Council on Pharmaceutical Education. The day before graduation, there was a hooding and recognition ceremony that included the soon to be graduates and their guests. During this ceremony the Charter Class members were presented their doctoral hoods by Dr. Dan Teat and Dr. Tom Holmes.

In late June, all of the Charter Class' past four years of preparation was put to the ultimate test- the Pharmacy Board Exams. In the end, the Charter Class of 1990 proved themselves again, with an incredible 100% rate of passing. Congratulations Guys, you really deserve it!

Clockwise from top left: The charter class celebrates after receiving their diplomas. A reception was held for the pharmacy graduates and their guests, immediately following graduation. Still in their caps, gowns, and hoods, the Charter Class gathers for their final pose together. Mr. Bill Randel presents the Pharmacy Boards results of 100% passing. Refreshments were served at the reception after graduation.

Pharmacy School Executive Board

The Pharmacy School Executive Board serves as the governing body of the pharmacy students and also acts as a liaison between the students and the administration. This governing body consists of the presidents of: Kappa Psi, Kappa Epsilon, Phi Delta Chi, Academy of Students of Pharmacy, and Christian Pharmacists Fellowship International. One of the many jobs of the PSEB is to regulate the money from fees that come in from student activities and to determine how these funds should be spent so as to benefit the students. This group selects a chairperson annually, who presides at the board meetings and represents the school at various functions throughout the state. Bill Gentry is serving as this year's chairperson. PSEB meets on the last Thursday of the month and their faculty advisor is Dr. Holmes.

PSEB work must also have a lighter side, as evident by Dr. Holmes and Jim Creech's smiles.

The members of the Pharmacy School Executive Board debate various issues.

Interfraternity Council

The Interfraternity Council (IFC) of the School of Pharmacy functions to coordinate the activities and responsibilities of the three professional pharmacy fraternities: Kappa Epsilon, Kappa Psi, and Phi Delta Chi. This coordination is necessary to optimize the beneficial effects of each groups' activities on and off campus, and prevent conflicting or overlapping activities. The Pharmacy IFC holds monthly meetings attended by the President, Faculty Advisor, and one additional representative from each group. Much of the agenda involves planning and scheduling future activities of the fraternities involved.

At an IFC meeting, Chip White, Chief Counselor of Phi Delta Chi, and Allison Clippard, President of Kappa Epsilon, listen intently with undivided attention.

The Reagent of Kappa Psi, Robert Broyles represents the fraternity at an IFC meeting.

PARENTS' DAY

Every year in the spring, Campbell University School of Pharmacy has its Parents' Day. This is a time when the students and their parents visit the school, and a series of events are planned to help them experience Campbell and the pharmacy school itself. This past year Parents' Day was held on Saturday, April 7, 1990 and consisted of a morning program, lunch, and culminated with tours of the pharmacy school. The program also contained an awards ceremony, in which various awards, honors, and scholarships were presented to certain students. The lunch was sponsored by Glaxo Pharmaceutical Company and was of an outside Pig-Pickin' style.

Right: Mr. Gerald Olsen, Chairman of the Parents Fund, gave a warm greeting to the visiting parents.

During the student portion of the program, the President of the class of 1992, gave a few remarks.

Dr. Fred Cox congratulates Robert Broyles while presenting him with an award.

Convocation

Campbell University School of Pharmacy held its fifth annual Convocation. All four classes assembled together to participate in this ceremony which symbolizes the beginning of another successful year for the Pharmacy School. Greetings were expressed by the visiting dignitaries Mr. William Randell, Mr. J. Frank Burton, and Dr. Timothy E. Poe. The keynote address was given to the students and faculty by Mr. Joe R. Whitehead, the Vice President of Corporate Affairs for the Burroughs Wellcome Company.

Fourth year student, Tasha Suggs, receives a Who's Who Among Students in American Colleges and Universities certificate from Dr. Holmes.

Dean Maddox presents Bill Gentry with a Who's Who award.

AWARDS

Every year on Parents' Day, an awards ceremony is incorporated into the program. This past spring in 1990, various awards, scholarships, and other types of recognitions were given to the different students of the pharmacy school. A list of the honors that were bestowed is as follows:

Christian Pharmacists

Christian Pharmacists Fellowship International is an organization composed of pharmacists and pharmacy students who are interested in seeking spiritual growth. The club promotes the integration of the Christian faith into the professional roles of pharmacists as well as encourages evangelism in the home, community, and work place. Membership is organized into both national and local chapters. The Campbell chapter of the national organization has weekly meetings consisting of Bible studies, guest speakers, and Christian fellowship.

The Ground-Breaking

Campbell University President, Dr. Norman Adrian Wiggins, Supreme Court Justice Louis Meyer, Law School Dean Pat Hetrick, and other dignitaries broke ground in December for a 45,000 square foot addition to the Norman Adrian Wiggins School of Law. Construction was to begin during 1991. The $4 million addition to Kivett Hall will double the existing law school adding new classrooms, library, and administrative areas. Another $1 million in renovations are planned for Kivett Hall after the new building is completed. Dr. Wiggins and Professor Lynn Buzzard were among those who spoke at the ground-breaking. An architect's drawing shows what the completed addition will look like.

BEVERLY WHEELER MASSEY

Beverly Wheeler Massey, Associate Professor and Assistant Dean of the Norman A. Wiggins School of Law, died on January 18, 1990. In honor of Dean Massey's life, Women-in-Law dedicates its Pine Burr section to her memory.

In 1977, Dean Massey and other women of the charter class formed the first Women-in-Law organization to focus on issues facing women in legal education and in the practice of law. After graduating first in her class, she clerked for the Honorable Robert M. Martin of the North Carolina Court of Appeals. In 1981, she returned to join the faculty at the School of Law and in 1988 was named Assistant Dean for Placement and Alumni Affairs. As a member of the faculty, Dean Massey continued to serve Women-in-Law as its faculty advisor.

Shortly after her return to Campbell, Dean Massey encouraged Women-in-Law to establish the Women-in-Law Scholarship Fund. The organization pledged to raise $10,000 within ten years to endow this scholarship which would be awarded to the student who possesses the attributes espoused by Women-in-Law. The primary fund-raising program is the annual Women-in-Law Auction. On April 26, 1990, Women-in-Law completed arrangements to rename its scholarship the Beverly Wheeler Massey Scholarship Fund to honor the memory of its founding member, faculty advisor and friend. Today, with the help of many friends, the Beverly Wheeler Massey Scholarship Fund is fully endowed.

Women-in-Law continues to pursue the goals set forth by Dean Massey. The organization promotes awareness of legal and social issues facing professional women today; provides support for fellow students; sponsors professional, service, and social functions. In our activities, we miss Dean Massey, but her spirit lives in the lives of all those whom she touched.

Although we are engaged in the educational mission of Campbell University, we must not forget what is going on around us in the world. Wars are still being fought and natural disasters are still occurring, but there are good things happening too. These two pages are devoted to world news. These are the events that have affected our lives in some way the past year.

On April 22, an estimated 200 million people all over the planet celebrated the 20th anniversary of Earth day. Activists pleaded for everyone to help conserve our beautiful planet and to take care of our fragile environment. Earth Day was celebrated in more than 3,600 American communities and in 140 nations around the world, according to organizers.

The portrait of Saddam Hussein shows a man with a strange duality: tough, yet fearful; inspiring fear in his own people, yet also basking in a kind of populist veneration from many of the region's Arabs.

Fear and terror surround the 53-year-old Iraqi President, and U.S. intelligence officials and other analysts believe that this climate could be his undoing.

The U.S. Army's heaviest ground firepower reached Saudi soil in August for deployment behind Arab forces manning the front line in the standoff with Iraqi.

Dozens of M1-1P tanks and M2 Bradley armored infantry fighting vehicles, and scores more heavy support vehicles, rolled off two huge transport ships at a port in northeastern Saudi Arabia and made their way north into the desert.

World leaders welcomed a united Germany into the international community on October 3, 1990, but concerns about the balance of power tempered some European enthusiasm.

The nation united at the stroke of midnight when a giant German flag was raised in front of the battle-scarred Reichstag building in Berlin. Kohl and other leaders joined in singing the national anthem. The unification came 11 months after the Berlin Wall fell in a peaceful revolt that cast aside Communist East German overlords.

Celebrating the fruits of their summit diplomacy, President Bush and Soviet President Mikhail Gorbachev shook hands and signed a sheaf of agreements, including a conditional trade accord. During the June 1990 summit, the leaders also embraced a preliminary deal to cut long-range nuclear arms.

The two leaders also agreed to strive for an elusive agreement on reduction of troops, tanks and other conventional weapons in Europe.

As of mid-October 1990, more than 200,000 U.S. troops had been deployed to Saudi Arabia, Pentagon sources said. They are preparing to defend the desert kingdom from a possible Iraqi attack.

COLOPHON

The 1991 Pine Burr, volume 56 was published by Taylor Publishing Company Of Dallas, Texas. The Press run was 2,464 copies containing 400 pages. An additional 75 copies was printed to be used as an example book throughout the country. There were 40 four color pages and 18 pages of spot color.

The cover was designed by April Enos of Jackson, Mississippi, for Michael Smith and Valerie Strickland of the Pine Burr Staff. The design is blind embossed on blue vellum cover stock with red #933 and silver foil applied as accents. The end sheets were also blind embossed.

The book was printed utilizing offset lithography processes on westvaco high gloss 80# enamel stock. The primary body copy and caption face was Chancery with headlines set in Chancery Bold. The student life section used Geneva Bold for subheads.

All photos were reproduced using a 155 line elliptical dot screen. All color was separated using the heli Laser scanner. Photography was provided by Service Enterprises, Campbell University. Class portraits were taken by Max Ward Studios.
